WHY HOUSE CALLS

You should not need a grandchild on speed dial.

Somewhere along the way, everyday life moved onto screens. The bank, the doctor, the pharmacy, the photos of the grandkids. Nobody asked whether that worked for you, and nobody came to the house to explain it.

House Calls is the person who comes to the house. We sit down with you, fix what is bothering you, set things up so they are safe and simple, and write it all down in large print before we leave. If you live far away, we do the same thing by phone and by sharing your screen.

For you

You run your own life and intend to keep doing it. You would just like fewer passwords, fewer pop-ups, and fewer phone calls from strangers.

For your mom or dad

You are the family help desk, and you live three states away. We become the patient person nearby, and we keep you in the loop.

For anyone who says "I'm not a computer person"

No jargon and no judgment. If we use a word you do not know, stop us. That one is on us.

A NOTE FROM BROOKS

My mother lives in Vermont and I live in Brooklyn. So I built her one page on her iPad, with no password, that holds the things she actually uses. When she needs to do something around the house, I can send her a guide written for the exact model she owns.

I spent fifteen years running the technology behind live events for banks and public companies, where nothing was allowed to go wrong. House Calls is that same care, for your family.

WHAT WE HELP WITH

Bring us your list. Any list.

Most people start with one thing that is driving them crazy. If yours is not on these two pages, ask anyway.

01 Passwords and accounts

One safe place for every password you own.

- A password manager set up on your phone, tablet and computer
- Every account gathered in, with weak and repeated passwords replaced
- Two-step sign-in done the easy way, with printed backup codes
- Emergency access for a family member you trust, if you want it

02 Scam and fraud protection

Fewer strangers, and someone to ask first.

- Unknown callers silenced, junk texts and email filtered
- Credit frozen at all three bureaus, alerts on your bank and cards
- A family code word for "your grandson is in trouble" calls
- Our Ask First line: send us anything suspicious and hear back the same day

03 Phones, tablets and computers

Set up for the way you actually use them.

- New devices set up, with everything moved over from the old one
- A simpler home screen, bigger text, clearer sound
- Hearing aids paired, captions on, typing by voice
- Backups, updates and storage looked after

04 TV, Wi-Fi and printers

The things that are supposed to just work.

- One remote that makes sense, and shows you can find
- Wi-Fi that reaches every room
- A printer and scanner that print and scan
- A look at what you pay for cable, internet and phone

05 Bills and paperwork

We organize. Your advisor and accountant advise.

- A bill calendar, with automatic payment where it helps
- Subscriptions found, and the forgotten ones cancelled with you
- Paper scanned into a searchable filing cabinet
- A tax-time folder ready for your accountant

06 Health and safety

Following the doctor's office online.

- Patient portals set up, shared with family if you choose
- Medicine and appointment reminders
- Video visits tested ahead of time
- Medical ID and fall detection turned on

The good parts of technology, too.

07 Family and photos

Closer to the people you miss.

- Video calls that start with one tap
- A shared family album, and a picture frame the grandkids can send to
- Thousands of photos sorted, named and backed up
- Old prints, slides and tapes brought into the present

08 Around the house

Instructions for your house, not somebody else's.

- Step-by-step guides for your own appliances, by model number
- Thermostat, doorbell, and alerts for leaks and smoke
- A voice speaker for reminders, music and calls
- A home inventory with photos for your insurance

09 A friendly start with AI

An assistant that reads the fine print for you.

- A trustworthy AI assistant, set up with safe settings
- Ten useful things to ask it, practiced together
- Help with a confusing bill, a form, or a letter from the insurer
- How to spot fake voices, photos and messages

10 In case of emergency

So your family is never locked out of your life.

- One page that says who to call and where everything is
- A list of every account and how each bill gets paid
- Legacy contacts set on your Apple, Google and Facebook accounts
- A shared family folder for the papers your attorney prepares

Taking over the accounts

When a husband or wife who "handled all that" is gone, the passwords, bills and subscriptions often go with them. We help you find every account, take each one over, and close what you no longer need, at your pace.

Talks for your group

Free one-hour talks for libraries, senior centers, congregations and retirement communities. Favorites: Scam-Proof in an Hour, Passwords Without Tears, and Meet Your AI Assistant. Large-print handouts included.

What we do not do. We do not give legal, tax, medical or investment advice, and we do not repair broken hardware. We will tell you plainly when something belongs with your attorney, accountant, doctor or a repair shop, and help you get ready for that conversation.

ONLY AT ATTIC LIGHT

An app made for exactly one person.

Most apps are built for millions of people. That is why they have forty buttons. We build small ones for one person, with only the buttons that person needs.

You describe what you wish existed, in plain words. About a week later it is on your home screen. No password to remember. When you want something changed, you call or text and we change it.

ONES WE HAVE ALREADY BUILT

A mother's iPad page
One page, no sign-in, holding her family videos and how-to guides for her own house.

An uncle's recording studio
He pastes two links and types what he wants in plain words. A finished recording with music comes back.

An author's card deck
A classic deck of creativity cards turned into an AI app. He sends notes and sketches by text, and the changes go live.

A general store open since 1875
The owners ask questions about their own books in plain English and get answers from the real numbers.

An example of a one-person home page. Yours would have your buttons.

1. You tell us what you wish existed.
2. A first version arrives in about a week.
3. You say what to change. We change it.

What yours might be

My Day, with big buttons for the six things you do. The House Manual: every shutoff, appliance and repair person. The Family Page, where everyone sees the same appointments and notes. The Recipe Box. Your Story, told in your own voice.

What it costs

Most one-person apps are $900 to $2,500 to build and $25 a month to keep running and updated. We give you a fixed price after a free call, before any work starts. The app, and everything in it, belongs to you.

WAYS TO WORK TOGETHER

Plain prices. No surprises.

Every option starts with a free 20-minute phone call. You will know the price before we begin.

HOW IT WORKS

Four steps, none of them scary.

A free call
Twenty minutes by phone. Tell us what is bothering you. No sales pitch.

2
The visit
We come to you, or share your screen. We start with your list, not ours.

3
Written down
You keep Your Guide: what we set up and how to use it, in large print.

4
Still here
Call or text with a question afterward. A real person answers.

OUR PROMISES

You are letting us into your home and your accounts.

We take that seriously. These are the rules we work by, every time.

1. We never keep your passwords. They live in your own password manager, which only you can open.
2. We never move your money. You press every "pay" and "send" button yourself.
3. We never sell you equipment. No commissions. If you need something, we say what and where.
4. You decide what family hears. Nothing is shared with anyone without your say-so.
5. The same person every time. You get Brooks, not a call center and not a stranger.
6. Plain words, large print. Everything we set up is written down so you can do it without us.
7. Everything stays yours. Accounts, files and apps are in your name. Stop any time and keep it all.
8. We say when it is not our job. Legal, tax, medical and investment questions go to your professionals.

FOR FAMILIES FAR AWAY

You cannot be there every time the printer stops. We can.

On the Family Plan, your parent gets one patient person to call, and you get a short note each month. They decide what goes in it. We work for them.

EXAMPLE OF A MONTHLY NOTE

Hi Anne, a quiet month for your mom. One scam text about a package, which she sent to me first instead of clicking. One printer fix by phone. Her backups are current. Nothing needs you this month.
